1/4 of employers have difficulty filling entry-level vacancies because applicants lack soft skills.

(Deloitte, Soft Skills for Business Success Report, 2017)

Centuries of expertise

Eton College and EtonX

Founded by King Henry VI in 1440, Eton College is one of the UK's leading independent schools. It teaches 1,300 boys aged 13–18 and provides a stimulating all-round education coupled with academic excellence.

“At the heart of Eton's values lies the belief that academic learning alone is not enough. How our students present ideas, work with others and prepare for new challenges are just as important. In launching EtonX our aim has been to create an online learning experience which is true to those values, equipping young people with the skills they need to thrive in a changing world”.

Simon Henderson, Headmaster, Eton College

Eton's expertise shared online

EtonX is a subsidiary of Eton College so our courses allow students globally to benefit from Eton's acclaimed expertise in developing well-rounded, high-achieving students. All EtonX Future Skills courses are developed with Eton. Each course has a Course Director who is a practising teacher at Eton and who helps shape the course syllabus, consults on the course content, reviews and approves it and records videos, introducing and summarising each week of content. Our courses include activities undertaken at Eton in lessons, tutorials and in extra-curricular activities, all of which reflect Eton's teaching ethos.

A new way to learn vital skills

Tutor Group courses

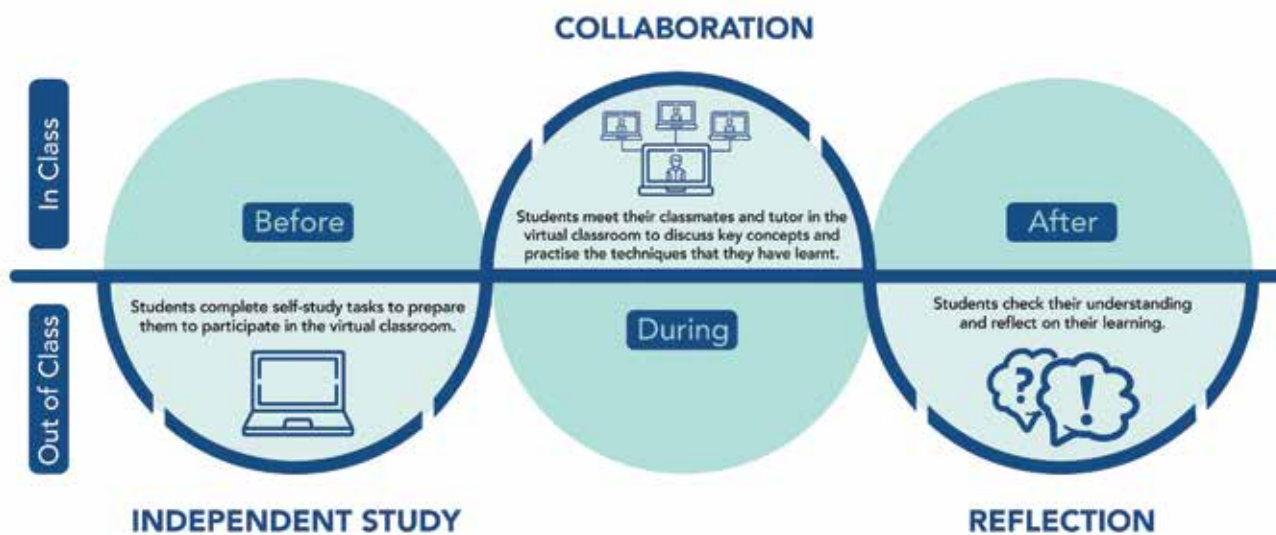

EtonX Tutor Group courses allow students to develop 21st-century skills in small groups of up to eight students. We use an innovative combination of live online classes and self-study course content.

Key features:

- ✓ 100% online
- ✓ 7 weeks
- ✓ 2 hours of study per week
- ✓ Live, online group classes in EtonX's cutting-edge virtual classroom

In the virtual classroom students take part in discussions, role plays and polls and use collaboration tools such as shared documents. In preparation for class each week, they follow a self-study programme (see page 8 for more details) and undertake peer learning tasks.

The flipped classroom

Students meet every week in the virtual classroom with the same group of students for the duration of their course. Cohorts can be:

Open – students will learn with peers from around the world and/or from other institutions.

Closed – students will learn alongside others from the same institution.

Our pedagogy

Our learner-centred approach encourages independent and active learning and equips students with the confidence to transfer the skills that they've learnt to many different areas of their lives.

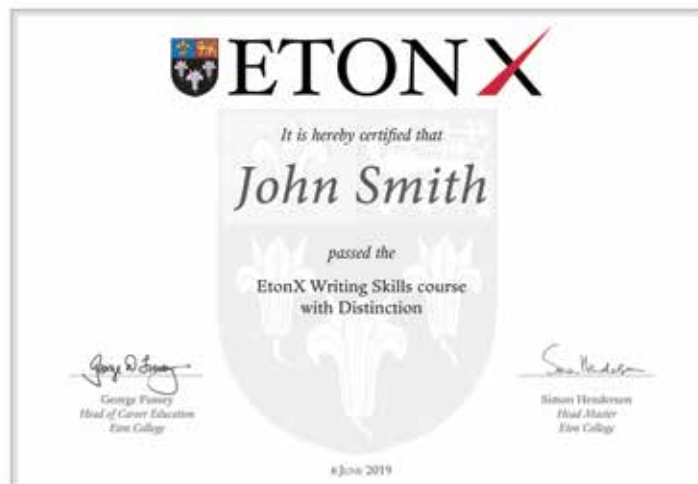

Five core principles:

 Flipped learning	The knowledge input is derived through self-study tasks. Students then practise and implement these skills in the live classroom with their peers.
 Communicative approach	Courses focus on developing skill and classes are leaning-centred. There is use of authentic materials and task types.
 Higher order thinking skills	Tasks are problem-based and encourage students to engage with the content and implement higher order thinking skills in order to understand, apply, analyse and evaluate as they learn.
 Real-world learning	Reflective tasks and a personalised action plan with autonomous learning goals ensure that students are encouraged to take their learning out of the classroom and into the real world.
 Collaborative learning	In the peer learning and discussion board tasks students learn from each other by discussing topics or giving feedback on each other's work.

Assessment and certification

Students in our Tutor Group courses are assessed on their attendance and engagement during the course, their attainment in the knowledge test and on evidence of skill development based on their the final assignment, graded by their EtonX tutor.

Depending on their performance, certificates are awarded as a Pass, Merit or Distinction. Our platform ensures that all EtonX certificates can be verified by third parties.
